The Eating Disorders (ED) team at Columbia Health is comprised of medical providers and mental health practitioners, such as physicians, nurse practitioners, nurses, nutritionists, social workers, and psychologists. Members of the ED team work closely together to provide appropriate assessment of and treatment for students with a range of eating, weight, and body image concerns.

Website:
Columbia Health Eating Disorders Team (Morningside) [2]